Jude 25.

PASTOR WILLIAMS AND FAMILY

To all of you on our mail list, my family and I thank you for the many letters of encouragement. God bless you all!

PLANS FOR THE FUTURE: America's Promise Broadcasts, and Lord's Covenant Church, will continue with as little change as possible. Of course, new leadership will undoubtedly cause some minor changes, but the ministry will continue on the same path.

Pastor Emry's radio broadcasts will continue to be aired, and I will continue with the weekly sermons, the tape ministry, newsletters and publications. I am dedicated to preserving the excellent tradition of statesmanship and dissemination of information to all of you. Hopefully, together we can see this effort grow to fulfill, in even greater proportions, the needs of Christian Americans across this land who thirst and hunger for righteousness. May the Almighty God of Israel direct and inspire these efforts. And may He bless all of you!

PERSONAL FROM ELAINE:

"I'd like to thank you for your many cards and letters. It is a comfort to know that Pastor Emry meant so much to all of you. So many of you wrote to say he helped you, as no one else could, to understand the Bible. Others of you say that he was a great influence in your life even though you had never met him personally. His work will go on in each of you he inspired. I'm thankful he inspired Pastor Williams and his lovely family. May we all work together to carry on the Lord's work, as Sheldon would have wanted."

INDIANA HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES recently passed House Concurrent Resolution No. 109 urging Congress to investigate the Trilateral Commission and the Council on Foreign Relations to determine their influence over the foreign and domestic policies of the United States. This is similar to the resolutions passed in several states, including Indiana, in 1983 asking the U.S. Congress to repeal the Federal Reserve Act. THANK YOU, INDIANA! I hope this current resolution has more effect than the former.

INSANITY can be produced in a society by causing the people to accept conflicting information from one source. This causes them to accept two or more mutually-exclusive ideas at once, thus causing a breakdown of logic functions in the brain.

No one is better at producing insanity than the so-called economic experts of our day. It's little wonder that the average man on the street knows nothing about the economy. Economic insanity runs rampant! The following illustration should prove it.

Try this one on your friends. Ask someone if they can tell you the current market trend of the U.S. Dollar. The common response is, "Our dollar is LOSING PURCHASING POWER, and is worth only a fraction of what it was worth a few years ago." Then ask that same person if he knows the reason for our current international export-import trade deficit. The common response to this one is, "The U.S. dollar is OVER-VALUED in the foreign marketplace." An article which appeared in the April, 1985 edition of the "LAND O'LAKES MIRROR" magazine reflects current opinion of "the experts," and leaves the public desperately grasping at sanity. The article begins,

"If the value of the dollar doesn't begin to decline dramatically against major foreign currencies, American farmers, manufacturers and most allied industries dependent on export trade will be out of business and nearly six million people will be out of work. . . The dollar is so overvalued in the foreign marketplace that other countries can no longer afford our products."

Quoting from an article in Kenneth Coleman's May, 1985 newsletter, concerning the value of the U.S. Dollar:

"The bad news came when the American Banking Association, representing the majority of our country's banks, warned at a March 1985 convocation that banks and farmers are not the only ones in danger. The ABA shocked the world by predicting the immediate destruction of the U.S. economy unless the dollar is allowed to drop to a more realistic value.

"This is old news. Several eminent market analysts have been saying the same thing since the too-highly-valued dollar came on the scene. In fact, Donald Hoppe, a Chicago area market analyst, is predicting a 1930s type depression starting no later than 1986."

The writer then goes on to assert that the overvalued dollar was the result of misdirection of the FED:

"In 1981, a drastic new policy was put into place. It was a catch-all policy called supply-side economics. It included, among other things, massive corporate tax breaks, gigantic defense spending and drastically high interest rates. When these were coupled with a severe recession, it turned the dollar's value around.

"During the past few years via this strategy, the dollar's value was forced upward an incredible 75-80 percent against the ten major world currencies. The immediate result of this devious ploy has been massive U.S. debt and the destruction of much of America's traditional economic strength.

"In less than two years after these harmful policies were initiated, America became a debtor nation for the first time in over seventy years. That means we owe more to foreigners than they owe to us. During the last two years, America's trade imbalance deficit rose to over $150 billion.

"What this means, according to the government's own estimates, is that U.S. taxpayers will owe about $350 billion to foreign exporters by the end of this year. This debt is over and above that of the much-touted national debt. Many economists are warning that unless this huge foreign subsidy is ended, America will soon become a bigger debtor nation than Mexico or Brazil. Think about that! America becoming a third world debtor nation! You may find it too horrible to comprehend!"

In Bolivia right now, where inflation is reported to be in excess of 50,000%, and transactions are negotiated by weighing the cash, or by measuring it by inches in the stack rather than counting it, the single dependable hedge against inflation (according to a recent article from the N.Y. Times) is the U.S. dollar.

So what should we do with our U.S. dollar? Is it too low in value? Is it too high? Can it be both? This Babylonish confusion should serve to keep the bureaucratic "experts" on the payroll for years, explaining the intricacies of "modern economics" to a baffled, insane public.

If this question sparks any interest in your friends, hand them a copy of Billions For The Bankers. This small book is effective in reinstating some economic sanity in the minds of our people. You should also let them hear Pastor Emry's 4-tape series titled THE MONEY CHANGERS - Nos. 8101-8104.

MORE ECONOMIC INSANITY: No matter what we say, nor what is proven to be logical and sensible, the practical application of economy still seems to elude many patriots. In spite of everything, there are still those who cling to gold as their saviour. We have repeatedly warned people against putting their trust in gold.

We have shown the vanity of hoping for a "gold-backed currency," as well as the hope for an actual gold coin monetary system. And by the same token, we have shown that it is idolatry to put your trust in anything other than God's laws. It makes no difference what material is used to make our currency, if it is not controlled by God's laws it will be unjust. There is NO METAL (gold, silver, or anything else) that's immune to abuse by the unscrupulous usurers. If there is any doubt in your mind that usurers can abuse gold, silver, and platinum just as easily as they abuse paper money to plunder the public, you should listen to our tape No. 8022 - THE UTTER IMPOSSIBILITY OF GOLD-BACKED MONEY; also Nos. 7418, 7419, 7420 - SHOULD WE PUT OUR TRUST IN GOLD. We'd appreciate an offering of $3.00 for each tape.

Hard-money people often tell us that "the price of gold and silver never changes; it is the price of everything else that changes. Gold and silver remain stable, and everything else revolves around it." For those of you who have already forgotten how, in the last few years, we have seen gold and silver prices skyrocket, and now plunge again, I can only suggest that you should seriously ask yourself, "Did the price of gold go up, and then down, or did the price of everything else in the world go down, and then up?" One or the other certainly changed substantially, and in a short period of time.

GOLD PRICES ARE SET ARBITRARILY. People who gauge the economy by watching gold are duped into using the very rule our enemies want us to use: A FALSE MEASURE! Gold and silver, today, are not normal commodities: THEY ARE MANIPULATED COMMODITIES! By that, I mean that our enemies control them and manipulate them to the extent that their values and activities are not natural: they do not find their own natural level in the economy. They are a false measure because the London and New York Bankers cause them to take a false course. Why would any American Patriot want to follow an economic course mapped out by London and New York Bankers?

The following article should be enough to convince any "hard-money man" that his sweetheart, gold, is a fickle woman: unstable and unfaithful:

Washington - There is nothing sacred about the price of gold at $35 ounce. It must be remembered the price was set by Franklin D. Roosevelt almost 40 years ago, when he launched the spiral of tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect.

In his diaries, the late Henry Morgenthau Jr., F.D.R.'s Secretary of the Treasury, tells how Roosevelt raised the price of gold from $29.01 an ounce on the London market toward his goal of $35 ounce. Every morning F.D.R. would meet with Morgenthau; Reconstruction Finance Corp. Chairman Jesse Jones and Dr. George F. Warren, a farm and monetary expert, to set the price of gold in October and November of 1933.

Roosevelt, according to Morgenthau "would lie comfortably on his old fashioned three-quarters mahogany bed. A table stood on each side. On his left would be a batch of government reports, a detective novel or two, a couple of telephones. On his right would be pads, pencils, cigars, his watch and a plate of fruit. Hearty and refreshed after a night's rest, he would eat his soft boiled eggs," while others reported on the behavior of gold and commodity prices.

On Nov. 3 - with a range of 19 to 22 cents to add to the price of gold - F.D.R. took one look at the worried Morgenthau and suggested a rise of 21 cents.

"It is a lucky number," Roosevelt said with a laugh, according to the diaries, "because it's three times seven."

Later Morgenthau confided to his diaries, "If anybody ever knew how we really set the price of gold thru a combination of lucky numbers, etc., I think they would be frightened."

Many are frightened now about the decline of the dollar in world markets, the freeze of wages and prices, the 10 percent tax on imports, and various measures being taken to strengthen the economy. However, we are reaping the whirlwind of 40 years of inflationary spending and policies. Pandora's box was flung open long ago, and there is a grave question that it can be closed in 90 days.

Forty years ago the public debt was under $20 billion. Today it is over $400 billion, more than the combined debts of all the other nations in the world. It is racing toward $1 trillion. The government has had only one answer - to set the printing press rolling out dollars. Wages were increased, and prices, so that there would be more dollars to tax.

Building machine operators get almost $40,000 a year in some areas with no investment or investment responsibility. Bulldozer operators get $32,000 a year for a 40-hour week. Warehouse handlers who need few brains and little muscle, get more than $10,000 a year. Building tradesmen get $20,000 a year and better, truck drivers get around $15,000 a year for a 40-hour week, and ordinary shop workers around $10,000.

No one begrudges them such pay in these days. If they get substantial raises these are eaten up by new taxes and rising costs, so they must struggle to keep their place on the treadmill.

The Rev. Frank Rottier of Toulon, Ill., says that the policies and programs of the last 40 years "have so completely ...molded the revolutionary retrocession of our American free enterprise way of life and its political principles that they are now gone. For businessmen, companies and corporations no longer run their own industries but are under the heels of Washington edicts of structural control by government and union accords."

Dr. Rottier concludes an open letter to the press media by declaring: "Unless we return to the God of Gods for the continuity of life, we will soon find ourselves in the ashes of our own destruction. For it is God who changes times and seasons; who removes kings and sets up kings; who gives wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to them that have understanding; who raises up the enemy to destroy; who makes fools out of those who say there is no god in economics and hold to the satanic fallacy of believing if everything were controlled and governmented everyone would have enough and be satisfied; thus denying any sin in our economics of daily life and its need for pardon (His Son) and the timely adjustment thereto that we may live."

EASY COME - EASY GO. In certain circles there is apparently no money shortage. The psychedelic blue, red, and yellow 1965 Rolls-Royce of former Beatle John Lennon sold recently at an auction in New York for 2 1/4 million dollars. The Beatles once made the statement that they were "more popular than Jesus Christ." I think it's true. America, where are your priorities?

JUST WHEN WE THOUGHT FARMING WAS ON ITS WAY OUT: It appears that not all agricultural enterprises are suffering in America. U.S.-grown marijuana in 1984 totaled an estimated record of $16.6 billion, according to the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws. The harvest reportedly was worth 20% more than in 1983. Marijuana is ranked second only to the nation's 1984 corn crop, which amounted to $19.5 billion. Apparently, some folks would rather smoke than eat.

SPEAKING OF INVESTEMENTS, here's an offer you can't refuse! We recently received this "unique investment opportunity" in the mail, and thought we ought to share it with all of you who may want to "get rich quick." The offer went like this:

THE FINAL SOLUTION TO YOUR MONEY PROBLEM:

"I'm certain, you being a prudent and wise money manager, will want to get in on the ground floor and be one of the very first few to get rich quick.

"This is not like those other "get rich quick" schemes you've heard about. This is totally different and believe me, I think you'll agree it's very unique. You'll not want to miss this "once in a lifetime" chance. TRUST ME!

"A group of us are considering investing in a large cat ranch near Hermosillo, Mexico. It is our purpose to start rather small, with about one million cats. Each cat averages about twelve kittens a year, and their skins can be sold for about 20 cents for the white ones and up to 40 cents for the black. This will give us 12 million cat skins per year to sell at an average price of around 32 cents, making our revenue about $3 million a year. This really averages out to $10 thousand a day, excluding Sundays and Holidays.

"A good Mexican cat-man can skin about 50 cats per day at a wage of $3.15 a day. It will only take 663 skimmers to operate the ranch so the net profit would be over $8,200.00 per day.

"Now, the cats will be fed on rats exclusively. Rats multiply four times as fast as cats. We will start a rat ranch right adjacent to our cat farm. If we start with a million rats, we will have four rats per cat each day. The rats will be fed on the carcasses of the skinned cats. This will give each rat a quarter of a cat. You can see by this that the business is a clean operation, self supporting and really automatic throughout. The cats will eat the rats, and the rats will eat the cats, and we will get the skins.

"We plan to organize a Mexican corporation with Uno Centavo par value stock. This is equal to .0008 per share, American Money. We plan to sell 99,000,000 shares at par. This is $79,200.00 American Dollars.

"Please let me know how many shares you want to purchase, because, as you can imagine, they are going rapidly and we are very particular who we let in on this.

"SURE-SHOT FELINE INVESTMENT CORPS"

(I understand that this was placed in a newspaper, with the intention of providing a little humor. But to the surprise of the man who placed it, he received many letters from the public who thought it sounded good, and wanted to invest in it.)

GANPAC BOMBED: Hans Schmidt produces the GANPAC newsletter from their office in Santa Monica, CA. GANPAC stands for German-American National Political Action Committee. The newsletter is designed to dispel misinformation about the German people in general, and to address various aspects of history, as well as current affairs.

The building in which Schmidt's office is located was recently fire-bombed. Fortunately, however, GANPAC's offices weren't badly damaged. A recorded message was telephoned to United Press International, from "members of the JDL," taking credit for the bombing. If you would like to subscribe to GANPAC, write to: PO BOX 1137, Santa Monica, CA 90401.

MAZDA MOTOR CORP plans to open its $450 million assembly plant at Flat Rock, Mich., late in 1987. Michigan baited Mazda with $138 million in grants, loans, and tax abatement. Foreigners get help, while citizen farmers get the boot. Apparently, in Michigan, Mazdas are more important than food, and Japanese have an advantage over Americans.

"THERE THEY GO AGAIN" The Jewish Double Standard is alive and well. A few months ago, they reveled at the arrest of Klaus Barbie, an alleged Nazi war criminal. You may remember how the news media labeled him "The Butcher of Lyon." He was accused of murdering thousands of Jews, and committing other atrocities. Well, in a pretrial investigation recently, in Lyon, France, the judge had to admit that there was no proof that "the notorious Butcher of Lyon" killed anyone during World War II. Now they are trying to get him on charges of "complicity" to alleged crimes (in other words, he failed to disapprove of the alleged crimes.)

Modern "Nazi Hunters" advocate Genocide: the exact crime they blame on the Germans. An article from the "Newsday" in Long Island, 4/18/85, quotes Nazi hunter Tuviah Freidman, who claims to have tracked down 2,000 Nazis, as saying "You beat them up and they cry. This was my pleasure. I saw what cowards they were."

Apparently they are not opposed to Genocide as long as it is against German World War II veterans.

ARE YOU CONFUSED FROM LISTENING TO EXPERTS? After reading the following article I think you'll feel better. It has been said that "an authority" is a man who is 50 miles away from his home. This article doesn't address preacher-experts, but it would apply just as well.

Nobel Prize Winner Says:

Most Experts Are Full of Hot Air

Most experts don't know more than the average person, says Nobel prize-winning scientist Richard Feynman.

"There are at least 100 different points of view by so-called experts on how to meet a man, how to invest in the stock market, how to achieve peace of mind and how to be a better parent," said Feynman, a professor of physics at California Institute of Technology.

"If each 'expert' claims his way is the only way, why are there so many different opinions on what works? If an idea or piece of advice is valid and really works, there would be more agreement on it.

"All the experts would say: 'This is the way to bring up your kids, or invest in the stock market, or find a mate.' But on the contrary, all the advice you hear is not consistent."

Most psychological advice is "a lot of hot air," declared Feynman, who was awarded the Nobel prize in physics in 1965.

"Experts who put forth ideas on how to feel better, get more love or be happier haven't done any real scientific checking to see if their theories hold water," he pointed out.

"Psychological theories on how we think — or how our subconscious works — are speculative and almost certainly wrong. We still don't understand how our minds work."

As for the stock market, "for every expert who is right about a stock, there are just as many who are wrong in their predictions," Feynman said.

"Here again, the experts claim they know more than you do. In reality, you know just as much as they do."

Some experts, he cautioned, should be listened to. For instance, it's not wise to ignore advice from your physician or from your mechanic when he tells you your car is about to break down.

'You Know Just as Much as They Do!'

Here's how you can tell if an expert really knows what he's talking about, according to Feynman:

Ask commonsense questions. For example, if someone advises you to buy certain stocks, ask yourself: "Is this man rich himself? If he knows so much about the market, why does he have to earn his living by advising people what stocks to buy?"

Be skeptical. "Don't allow a so-called expert to intimidate you. If you can't follow what an expert is saying, don't blame yourself. He might be handing you a lot of mumbo jumbo."

Be self-confident. "Believe in yourself and your own abilities. Don't frighten yourself by thinking that only the experts have all the answers.

"Forget about the experts, and rely on your own sound judgments. Common sense is all you need."

— PETER FENTON

GRASSROOTS-AMERICA is beginning to see the double standard, and there is increasing evidence that the Antichrists do indeed have reason to feel uneasy. Christian American Patriots, at the grassroots level, are beginning to wake up all over America. The bureaucrats are starting to feel the groundswell. The Babylonians are still occupying the positions of power, but their pyramid is teetering. The collapse is inevitable and they know it.

We are beginning to see harbingers of the Fall of Babylon; indications that they are worried. In The Wichita Eagle-Beacon, columnist Sydney Harris gave us a glimpse of their fear expressed in the following article:

THE WICHITA EAGLE-BEACON

Wednesday, July 3, 1985

The Patriots and Nationalists Have Taken Over in America

The worst thing that has happened to "Americanism" in its 200-odd years of existence is that it has largely been taken over by the patriots and the nationalists.

When the United States was conceived, and dedicated, and formed as a country, it was something entirely new and different.

It was not just another "nation," like all the others in history. It was a radical break with all the nations of the past.

In a real sense, it was a repudiation of old-time nationalism and patriotism, as these had been accepted for untold centuries.

Americanism was a global doctrine, not a regional or a geographic one. It was an "idea" more than a government — and the idea was that anyone and everyone could become an "American" by embracing the belief that the people were in charge of their rulers.

Moreover, being an "American" was not a matter of birth or rank or substance, but simply of allegiance to this idea. The Declaration of Independence did not say that "all Americans" or "all citizens," but "all men" were born equal under the law.

No wonder terror has stricken Mr. Harris. Others of his ilk are probably experiencing similar fear. We haven't taken our rightful place as of yet, but they see that it is inevitable and they fear the wrath of our God: "THOU BELIEVEST THAT THERE IS ONE GOD; THOU DOEST WELL: THE DEVILS ALSO BELIEVE, AND TREMBLE" - Jms. 2:19. The more we are persecuted, the stronger

This declaration set the Old World on fire, and the glow has not yet been extinguished. Thousands, and then millions, wanted to come here, to share in this noble and liberating vision, which transcended all previous boundaries of loyalty, and all degrees of servitude.

Although it took nearly another 90 years of history to make the complete jump to freedom, the whole point of our founders' dream was that being, or becoming, an "American" was not just accepting another national sovereignty; it was, instead, becoming a world citizen for the first time.

But if the original idea of our country means anything, it means we must remain open and hospitable to all who come here with the same dream; and, more than this, that we keep the hope alive in other parts of the world, not by a narrow view of our "national interest," but by supporting democratic movements wherever they arise, and by withholding our hand from all tyrannies, left and right alike.

we grow. The fall of Babylon is inevitable. As Babylon anticipates her own fall, she will lash out with cruelty and vengeance upon us. Rev. 12:12 "Woe to the inhabitants of the earth and of the sea for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time." God speed the day of her demise, and protect us from her wrath!

WHY NO EMPATHY FOR AFGHANISTAN? Ever wonder what's going on in Afghanistan? Most people are aware that there is a conflict with the Soviets there, but few realize the extent of the tragedy. Few know that opposition to the Soviet occupational forces there consists of only a few loyal Rebels who have been forced to live like animals in the hills. Few realize the villages that sympathize with the Rebels are "punished," by the Soviets, by having their cattle strafed, and crops burned.

Senator Steve Symms (R-ID) recently reported:

"I recently participated in a joint Senate-House examination of the crisis in Afghanistan. I was not surprised at the testimony; any regime that would, as a matter of course, slaughter 269 civilians in a commercial airliner can easily justify an Afghanistan.

"But according to UN Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick, Soviet brutality in Afghanistan has reached a new level of insensitivity. The Red Army has killed about a million Afghans, women and children included. Their 'scorched earth' policy may add another 4 million through famine.

"Many children have been blinded or lost limbs by picking up the explosive booby-trap 'toys' which Soviet planes spread over the countryside. The 'toys' are meant to maim, not kill, so that the little victims will be a burden to their parents.

"Other children are forcibly taken to the USSR to be indoctrinated in the glorious principles of Marx and Lenin.

"Soviet soldiers in helicopters have kidnapped girls and women, raped them, then thrown them naked from the copters while high above the ground. All for the purpose of intimidating and breaking the 'will to resist' of the Afghan people.

"During our hearings in Washington I noticed sitting in the back of the room one of Afghanistan's most famous and valiant freedom fighters, Brigadier General Rahmatullah Safi, together with another colorful, well-known freedom fighter, Commander Wali Khan. The General recently visited Los Angeles, where he met with the City Council and held a press conference to explain the suffering of this people.

"But he found an indifferent and insensitive audience. The Los Angeles media, which cannot give enough coverage to the Sandinistas and other leftist 'romantics' who fight brutal 'right-wing dictators', completely ignored these two great men.

"Neither the Los Angeles Times, nor the Los Angeles Herald examiner, nor NBC, nor CBS, nor ABC had even one line of coverage."

Television and newspapers have strange priorities. Millions of dollars are spent in production of television specials, songs, and headlines for recording celebrities and movie stars appearing to raise funds for the stated purpose of "raising money to feed the starving in Africa." It's strange that they would be so concerned about starving Africans, and yet be so unconcerned about the Soviet subjugation of Afghanistan, and the lonely but brave men, women, and children who are fighting and dying there.

If the recording stars, and movie stars are genuinely concerned about starving Africans, why don't they spend their money and efforts to stop THE CAUSE, instead of a symptom? Food shortage is only a symptom. The actual cause is the COMMUNIST TAKEOVER IN AFRICA?

As far as that goes, if their concern were really for the starving in Africa . . . instead of spending millions to produce TV specials, etc., why didn't they just use those millions to help the Africans? It is almost certain that they never raise as much donations as they spend in the productions. That puts the lie to their "good intentions," and exposes their true motives. They aren't as interested in the Africans as they are in getting more public exposure and free advertisement, thus IMPROVING THEIR OWN PUBLIC IMAGE SO THEY CAN SELL MORE MOVIES AND RECORDS TO INCREASE THEIR BANK ACCOUNTS.

But why does the American public tend to empathize more with a starving African (and thus feed him enough to keep him alive for another week before he dies) than with a dying Afghan freedom fighter? Perhaps after the Communist occupation government in Afghanistan has totally suppressed all resistance among the people of the land, and when starvation (the natural result of Communism) comes there too, we can begin a program to "feed the starving Afghans." Is the Free World so brainwashed that this is the only scenario that can evoke empathy? Is food more important than freedom? Have we become such creatures of our own bellies that Pottage is more important than Posterity? The Afghan Rebels are fighting for freedom for themselves and their children, much like our Forefathers did in America. Has America lost the spirit of our Forefathers? Why hasn't the Free World expressed at least as much concern for the brave Afghan Rebels as it has for the starving Africans? At least in Afghanistan there is still a chance to stop THE CAUSE of starvation; for those dying in Africa its too late.

TERRORISM BY ANY OTHER NAME is still terrorism. Here is another lesson to educate you against being brainwashed by words. "Terrorism" is the word that politicians and the media use to mentally disarm people with reference to any form of resistance against government. "Terrorism" and "terrorists" have become catch-words used by those who mold public opinion. After all, it is hard to sympathize with anyone who has been labeled "a terrorist," even when the label is false. For instance, what is the general public's opinion of the PLO? But, what do we know about them, other than the fact that they are portrayed as "terrorists" in the newspapers and on television. So, whether they really are terrorists, or whether they aren't, not one person in a million can make a determination based on accurate information. We only know that the media tells us that they are "terrorists."

"Terrorism" is running a close second to "antisemitism" as a favorite term for molding public opinion and vilifying certain people. What makes a person a terrorist? How can we recognize who is, and who is not a terrorist? When there are two factions fighting each other, what is the criteria for judging one side as "terrorists," and the other side as "protectors of the public?"

The 1828 Webster's Dictionary doesn't list the word "terrorism." Apparently, "terrorism" didn't exist until fairly recently. Webster's 1960 Unabridged defines it as:

"A mode of governing, or of opposing government, by intimidation."

This definition makes one wonder which side would be considered terrorist when both sides "intimidate" each other. In the Middle East, today, we see an ongoing confrontation of several forces, all of which use tactics of intimidation. However, our news media and politicians consistently identify one side (Israel) as GOOD intimidators, and at the same time identify the other side (Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Saudia Arabia, Iran, etc.) as BAD intimidators: TERRORISTS! Isn't it strange how that works?

The Israeli government sent thousands of soldiers and heavy artillery into Lebanon to "intimidate" by means of killing, maiming, brutalizing, and confusing the whole nation. The media and our politicians called this "an attempt to secure PEACE in the Middle-East."

When the Lebanese used their poor, unsophisticated means of resistance (they didn't have a super-power financing their war as Israel did) to try to "intimidate" the intruders to leave them alone, the politicians and our media called them "terrorists," as the Soviets are undoubtedly also labeling the Afghan freedom fighters.

There appears to be a DOUBLE STANDARD here.

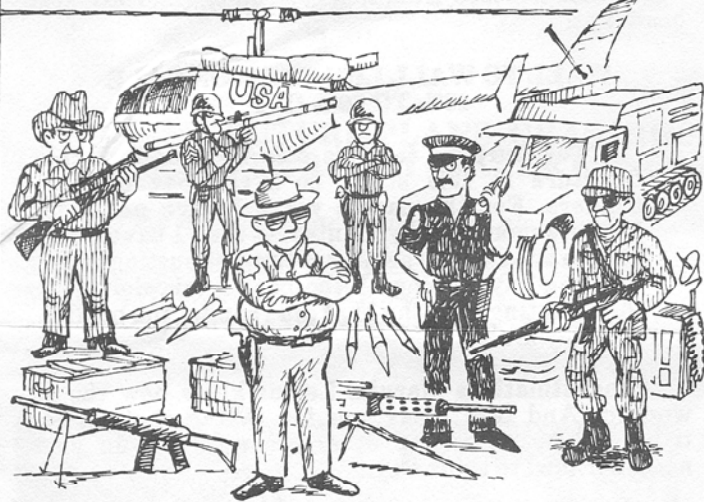

History and politics are fascinating. After observing the enigmatic politics of our day, and especially those of the Middle-East, logic and reason have led me to the conclusion that the small guy is usually the "terrorist," by definition of the mass-media. The big guy makes the rules, and the small guy's rules are ignored by the media. That makes the big guy the "law enforcer" (his law), while the little guy, who is opposed to the big guy, automatically is labeled "a terrorist."

It is apparent that the issue has not one thing to do with the question of the morality of either side, nor of which side is being victimized. It, again, is a case of THE GOLDEN RULE: "whoever has the gold, rules." The "big guy" with all the gold tells our media how to report the news, and the media obeys. AND THE PUBLIC IS KEPT IGNORANT.

Nowadays, American farmers, land owners, and businessmen are "intimidated" by Bureaucrats, Bankers, and the IRS under sanction of the government and the media. But when farmers, land owners, and businessmen get together to learn how to Constitutionally resist that intimidation, the politicians and our media accuse them of teaching "terrorism." When the small guy resists the big guy, it is "terrorism." When the big guy destroys the small guy, it is called "law enforcement."

The American public would be well advised to not allow their opinions to be molded by the media. About the only advantage of monitoring today's mass-media is to keep us alerted and warned of the current brainwash topic. Hopefully, by countering their lies we can help keep our people THINKING FOR THEMSELVES, instead of allowing the TV to do their thinking for them.

IS THERE RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN JEWISH OCCUPIED PALESTINE? Supporters of Judaism in America are quick to jump on the "religious freedom" bandwagon here in America where Christianity is predominate. But, recently, about 7,000 Israeli Jews demonstrated in Jerusalem at "the Wailing Wall" to protest the building of a center by Brigham Young University. They raised a banner which read, "We will not let our enemies set up a center of venom and apostasy opposite the temple mount." I wonder what would happen if Mormons demonstrated against the building of a synagogue in Salt Lake City, and called Jews "their enemies," and their teachings "venom?" Is this another double standard?

TO THE FRIENDS OF KEN ANDERSON: Ken was released from jail June 14, and the Ken Anderson fund has been discontinued. Below is a personal note from him.

Dear Christian Brethren,

Thanks so much for your help through prayer, money and love over the past year. After devoting my business life of 20 years to the natural health field, it sure was a surprise that almost all who helped me and stood behind my family were my Christian Israel friends.

Words can't express my love for the brethren that helped so much. The letters of support made the time in jail go faster, and it was obvious to the guards and other cell inmates that Christian brethren stand together.

I am out of jail now, and trying to get my life back together. I learned a lot during my one year in jail. My love for the Lord, my family, and the Christian brethren grew. I know from my experiences of the past year, that our country needs prayer more than I realized. The jail system is not the answer to crime in this country. Only God's laws and punishments will work, and put an end to crime.

My sincere thanks for all the help and support that Sheldon and his family gave me during this last year. He was a true Christian brother! Through his counseling he gave me strength for the stand that I took for freedom and America.

John 15:13 reads, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." To those who knew him, this described Sheldon.

In God's New Name for Israel (Christian),

HERE IS AN IDEA for placing an innovative ad for your business, and teach economic truth at the same time. Mr. Marvin Seat, of Fulton, Kentucky, owns a furniture store. He recently decided that he was tired of paying a tribute to the bankers in order to stay in business. He determined to sell enough stock on hand to pay off the bankers, and stop the interest payments even if it meant that his business would shrink in the process. His half-page ad in a local paper was interesting and eye-catching, and probably caused quite a stir. If you are a businessman in debt, you might take a lesson from this. The ad began with large headlines:

WALL TO WALL LIQUIDATION SALE
40% TO 70% OFF

"The purpose for this sale is to sell all the furniture in this store, so I can pay off the bankers. For the past 5 years I have paid the bankers more money in interest than I have been able to keep for myself. I am tired of putting in all the long days, doing all the hard work, doing all the sweating, and the bankers reaping the profits from my labors."

Congratulations Marvin! Let us know how the ad worked. And God bless you for taking a stand for truth! I'll bet it caused other store owners in your neighborhood to think a bit.

"Come, and let us return unto the Lord: for he hath torn, and he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up. . . Then shall we know, if we follow on to know the Lord: his going forth is prepared as the morning; and he shall come unto us as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth." (Hosea 6:1 & 3).
